CRITICAL CONCEPTS IN LANGUAGE STUDIES

September 2016: 234x156: 1617pp

Hb: 978-0-415-74082-1 | £900.00

"The right to speak your own language seems as obvious as breathing air; nonetheless every day on all continents people are denied this basic right. These state of the art volumes are the key tool for addressing concrete challenges."

- Morten Kjærum, Director of the Raoul Wallenberg Institute of Human Rights and Humanitarian Law in Lund, Sweden. Formerly Director of the European Union Agency for Fundamental Rights.

"These four volumes are the deepest and widest approach to language rights yet produced, and help us both understand and advance communication rights and their cultural and political consequences... the indispensable collection for the field."

- Joseph Lo Bianco, Professor of Language and Literacy Education, Melbourne Graduate School of Education. He wrote Australia's National Policy on Languages, and is advising governments worldwide on language policy and peace.

Language Rights

Edited by Tove Skutnabb-Kangas and Robert Phillipson

Series: Critical Concepts in Language Studies

This is an authoritative collection of texts on language rights principles and practices as these have evolved over the past century, and their anchoring in international and national legislation. It is multidisciplinary, drawing on language policy, political theory, education, law, philosophy, anthropology, economics, minority studies, deaf studies, and indigenous cosmologies. The editors have written a general introduction, and introductions to each thematic volume. There are 95 key texts, case studies of language rights in many countries, written by scholars from all continents. The selection consists mainly of texts published earlier, some with updates, and a few specially commissioned chapters.

Language rights: principles, enactment, application (volume 1)

Language policy in education: violations or rights for all? (volume 2)

Language endangerment and revitalization; language rights charters and declarations (volume 3)

Language rights: challenges in theory and implementation (volume 4).

Tove Skutnabb-Kangas has written or edited over 50 books and over 400 articles published in 48 languages on minority education, multilingualism, linguistic human rights, linguistic genocide, ecolinguistics, and the subtractive spread of English. She was awarded the UNESCO Linguapax prize in 2003. www.tove-skutnabb-kangas.org.

Robert Phillipson is a prolific scholar who has written or edited books on linguistic imperialism and the globalization of English, European Union language policy, language rights, and multilingualism in education. He was awarded the UNESCO Linguapax prize in 2010. www.cbs.dk/en/staff/rpibc.
